This form is to be completed, reviewed and signed, dated, and sent with the shipment.

U.S. Department of Labor's Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA) Regulation 29 CFR, Part 910.1930 requires the implementation of safeguards that help prevent occupational exposure to blood, blood products and infectious wastes. The Shipper must also meet Department of Transportation (DOT) regulations.

Mizuho OSI requires that all products sent for servicing, repair or credit be accompanied by this legible and completed form. Any product NOT certified by the End User with Product Status A indicated must be decontaminated¹ prior to its shipment to Mizuho OSI (or its authorized agents).

Prior to decontamination¹, products may contain Bloodborne Pathogens. Bloodborne Pathogens are infectious materials in blood and blood products that can cause disease in humans, including, but not limited to, hepatitis B (HBV) and hepatitis C (HCV) and human immunodeficiency virus (HIV) which causes Acquired Immunodeficiency Syndrome (AIDS).

Use safe work practices, engineering controls and proper personal protective equipment to help avoid and minimize exposure to bloodborne pathogens.
